October Webinar Highlights:

Course Overview of N500 and N505

October 16, 6pm MDT

This webinar is a continuation of our series that covers course expectations and prepares you for your next course. Join us as we discuss the first of the core MSN courses: N500 (Healthcare Systems) and N505 (Theoretical Foundations of Nursing). These are required courses in the RN-MSN and MSN programs.

How to Read a Scholarly Article

October 23, 6pm MDT

You will do research almost every week for your discussion forums and written assignments. Once you've found an article, what is the best way to approach it and get useful information from it? Join us as we delve into helpful ways to make the most of your research time and understand how to read scholarly sources.

The following events occur every month. They are targeted toward new students, but all are welcome!

Live Tour

October 2, 11am MDT

We will give a brief overview of the websites used as an American Sentinel student. We will cover the student site, our classroom site Moodle, our social networking site My Campus, and other student resources.

Workshop: APA Formatting

October 7, 4pm MDT

This workshop will walk you through the basics of APA formatting, the required manuscript format for all written assignments at American Sentinel. Consider attending if you have never used APA or it has been a long time since you've had to format a paper.

Webinar: Study Tips

October 11, 2pm MDT

This webinar will be a general overview of tips to help you be successful. It will cover things such as course preparation, success suggestions for during your class, and who to contact when you have questions.

Live Tour: Registration

October 15, 11.30am MDT

This session will walk you through the registration process. With the November term registration deadline coming at the end of the month, make sure you know how to request your next course and arrange credit hours.

Workshop: Basic Computer Skills

October 25, 2pm MDT

Research papers have different requirements and often incite anxiety in our students. Conquer your fear and attend this workshop that will introduce key elements of composing a research paper.

To join an event, click on the link a few minutes before the scheduled start time. All events are limited to 100 participants. If the session is full, recorded versions of all events will be posted in Moodle in the American Sentinel Student Center.

All event times are listed in MDT (Mountain Time). Please use the following time zone converter if you need assistance determining the time for your location: <http://www.thetimezoneconverter.com/>. It will automatically list "local time" for you. You can type in the event time and "Denver" on the other side to show what time the event will start for you.
